iSTORAGE Datashur 8GB

06 The Datashur is an ultra-secure USB stick that includes 256-bit hardware encryption, which can only be unlocked using the built-in keypad. As if this isn't enough, ten incorrect attempts at the unlock code will wipe the drive clean. As we're almost completely unqualified to assess whether the Datashur is as secure as iStorage claims, we handed the drive over to a hacker we know. Would she be able to crack the drive and access the Steam code we'd buried within? Thankfully for iStorage, even after a full week of hard graft, the Steam code remained secure and unregistered. Now, what was the security code we set again? We'd actually like that Steam key back. PG
